Q&A Time!

Q: How much time is being used for assignments everyday? (Estimation, by average)

Divasha: Depending on the classes you take and their respective level of difficulty, I'd say maybe 2-4 hours.

Q: How long is the spring break? Do people usually travel back home or stay in Japan?

Kana: Spring break usually starts at the end of January and ends in March as Japanese school year starts from April. I think most of the people choose to travel back home. I also went to Bangkok, where my parents live in spring.

Q: How are exams in the first year? Is it difficult straight away or do people usually have some time to adapt?

Rania: At SFC, evaluations are more paper-based. The difficulty of the exams differ between courses and whether you're a freshmen or senior, the difficulty is not different between grades. I took a Microeconomics I take-home exam last year, and as someone who had no previous experience in studying economics, it wasn't too hard nor too easy.

Q: What main things do you recommend we should/should not pack? What is better to buy in Japan instead of packing to go there?

Rania: If you come from a country that has a lot of spices in its traditional food (like Indonesia), I'd suggest you to bring instant traditional food mixes or spices that are hard to find in Japan.

Q: How much would you usually spend on food in Keio?

Kana: I spend around 500 yen for lunch at Keio. There are basically 3 options: university cafeteria, convenience store or Subway. These three offer pretty reasonable prices. If I choose to eat outside of campus, it would cost around 1000 yen.

Q: Is going to Tokyo or Yokohama easy from Fujisawa? Is that something you could do unplanned or is it tough to go there?

Divasha: Yes! It takes around an hour to go to Tokyo and 30 minutes to Yokohama. Definitely can go anytime unplanned, especially if you live near the station

Q: How do you join circles and labs? And could you have a trial or do you have to directly make full commitment?

Rania: It differs between each circle and lab. Usually, you could just contact a current member of that circle/lab and they'll guide you through the recruitment process. Some circles/labs give students who are interested in joining an opportunity to join in one of the sessions.

Q: I would like to ask whether SFC students have the chance to attend classes in other Keio campuses? Does it count for credit?

Mari: SFC students are allowed to take classes from other Keio campuses, though maximum 60 credits are counted towards graduation!

Q: Is PSR (Personal Study and Research) that we are submitting before enrolment have zero effect after our life starts in SFC? Are the teachers actually grading them?

Kana: No, they are not graded and what you write will not matter after enrollment. However, writing PSR will help you prepare the study you want to take part in at SFC. So I would recommend you to take some time to complete PSR. Good luck!

Q: What does a typical day look like for Keio SFC students?

Rania: When we still had fully on-campus classes, my routine would be riding the bus to SFC and going to classes. If I have free time, I'd spend time with my friends at the Kamoike Lounge or study at the media center. I would also have activities with my research lab (kenkyukai). Honestly, everyone's routines are different.

Thank you!

We hope that you enjoyed our presentation and found it informative.
